

A framed oil painting of a landscape. In the foreground, a large, textured tree trunk stands on a patch of ground covered with small, colorful flowers in shades of yellow, orange, and purple. A path or streambed leads from the right side of the foreground towards the background. The background features several bare trees and a hazy, distant landscape under a pale sky. The painting is enclosed in a simple, light-colored wooden frame.